Overview

Mack Martinez has made helping others his life's work. An Austin native, he earned a BA in Government from The University of Texas, which he followed up with a law degree from the University of Denver. Mack began his litigation career in the Tort Claims Division at the Texas Attorney General's Office. He later managed his own law practice, focusing on criminal defense and personal injury.

From 1995 to 2020, Mack worked at the Travis County Attorney's Office where he took on several demanding roles, including the Director of Criminal Trial Division and the Director of Domestic Violence and Human Trafficking Division.

In his current role as Of Counsel Attorney, Mack focuses on personal injury cases where he can continue to help people who have been victimized and need a strong voice to speak on their behalf.

Away from work he enjoys kickboxing and spending time outdoors, sea kayaking, white water rafting and hiking.
